De-Snaring Report for January, 2013

Monthly Summary

The long rains witnessed in the month of December 2012 and January 2013 created a positive impact to the teams' operation area since more of the dry water points were filled with water, hence reducing the human wildlife conflict. With the arrival of the rains, there has been increased vegetation cover and this attracted more charcoal burners into the team's area of operation. This forced the team to work tirelessly to counteract the problem in the area. During this month, the team concentrated in the TW triangle area, where the team was able to destroy a number of freshly set snares and illegal charcoal kilns. The team also sighted illegal logging as well as poachers' foot prints in the park. Six people were apprehended in the team's operation area this month. The culprits were booked for various offenses as the team continued to work tirelessly towards its objective of protecting the wildlife.

Report Compiled by Stephen Liyayi.
